'Those who do not know the sea': Homer and the margins of the Greek world

Monday 13 June 2022, 7pm

Great Hall, King's College London, The Strand, London WC2R 2LS and online

We are delighted to invite you to attend The Anglo-Hellenic League Runciman Award Ceremony 2022, under the joint sponsorship of the Athanasios C. Laskaridis Charitable Foundation and the A. G. Leventis Foundation.

Since 1986, the Award has rewarded annually the best book or books published the previous year in English about some aspect of Greece. The Award this year goes to the best book(s) published in 2021.

You are warmly invited to join us at our award ceremony, at which our chair of judges, Prof. Peter Frankopan, will announce the winner. The winner will attend the event and speak about the winning book. The keynote speech will be given by Prof. Richard Hunter FBA on: "‘Those who do not know the sea’: Homer and the margins of the Greek world’. The event will be introduced and chaired by Dr John Kittmer, chair of the Council of the League. A reception will follow.

You can find out more details about this year's competition, including the long list and short list, on our website: www.runcimanaward.org.

Richard Hunter was Regius Professor of Greek at the University of Cambridge from 2001 to 2021; he is a Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. He has written or edited more than twenty-five books and over one hundred articles on Greek and Roman literature and culture, has edited the Journal of Hellenic Studies, and is an editor of Cambridge Greek and Latin Classics and Cambridge Classical Studies. He is a Fellow of the British Academy, a Foreign Fellow of the Academy of Athens and a Fellow of the Australian Academy of the Humanities; he holds honorary degrees from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki and the University of Ioannina. Between 2012 and 2016, he served as President of the Council of the Aristotle University. In Cambridge he has twice been Chair of the Faculty of Classics and has also served as Head of the School of Arts and Humanities.

To reserve your place(s) at the Great Hall at King's College London, please send an e-mail (no later than 10 June) to info@anglohellenicleague.org, specifying how many places you require.
